

Press information

Press release
Information Presse
Información de Prensa

Blanco Catris-S Flexo: In three versions for a perfectly coordinated lookA style-conscious professional look for any kitchen

Mixer taps with high, flexible spouts first originated in the restaurant and food service sectors. Professional chefs need a large work area, not to mention a highly sturdy structure, in order to meet the demands of their day-to-day work. Such models tend to be used rather sparingly in private kitchens, as they look very bulky. However, the new Catris-S Flexo from Blanco is a lightweight version that brings the professional look to any household kitchen with plenty of style. Catris-S Flexo skilfully combines professional features with an elegantly balanced design and a sophisticated mix of materials.

The flexible spout is truly eye-catching in its own right, featuring a black matt rubber coating that sets modern accents in the kitchen. It offers fantastic ease of use, a large range of action and is easy to detach and re-attach to its magnetic holder. And there's more: the spout has a dual spray. At the touch of a button, you can switch from aerated stream to jet spray, which proves particularly practical for rinsing vegetables and washing dishes alike. The flow of water can be interrupted for a short time by pressing and holding the top button, without having to change your grip – another useful feature that prevents unnecessary water consumption.

Press information

Press release
Information Presse
Información de Prensa

Page 2

The Flexo models of the Catris-S come in three versions: chrome, stainless finish UltraResist and black matt – all with their own particular appeal. The chrome version is the ultimate all-rounder. For special requirements, we recommend the Catris-S Flexo in stainless finish UltraResist. Thanks to its slightly matt surface, it works particularly well with sinks in brushed stainless steel, as well as light-coloured sinks in Ceramic or Silgranit. The mixer tap surface is also particularly easy to clean, resistant and wear-proof. The Catris-S Flexo in the new black matt colour is right on trend. The dark, monochrome surface stands out strikingly within your space, whether a vintage industrial loft or a modern, minimalistic interior.

For a perfectly coordinated water hub, Blanco also offers a soap dispenser for the tap ledge or worktop. Its cylindrical shape and plethora of surface versions make it compatible with many different mixer taps. Of course, it is also available in chrome, stainless finish UltraResist and black matt versions for combining with Catris-S Flexo. Once it's been installed, you'll wonder how you ever did without the soap dispenser: simply give it a press to add washing-up liquid to the water, and fill it up from above with ease.

Press information

Press release
Information Presse
Información de Prensa

Page 3

Image captions:

Images 1a and 1b:

A professional look for any home: Blanco-Catris Flexo in chrome, with the matching Lato soap dispenser and chrome pop-up. Bowl: Blanco Etagon 500-U.

Image 2:

For special requirements; Catris-S Flexo in stainless finish UltraResist – an easy-care option with a sophisticated look. All Catris models also feature an adjustable dual spray. Illustration: Catris-S Flexo in stainless steel finish combined with the Silgranit Blanco Metra XL 6 S sink in the concrete-style colour.

Image 3:

On trend and striking, especially when contrasted with light colours. The Blanco Catris-S Flexo in the new black matt colour. Silgranit sinks in white or concrete-style look especially good with the completely black Catris-S Flexo.

Photos: Blanco

www.blanco.com